WINDMILLS

For economical power you can't beat a windmill. But in buying a mill you not only want to look for a mill with a good reputation, that works right, but you also want to be sure that you can always get repairs for it. That is why we sell the TORONTO and IDEAL mills. They are built right, give good satisfaction, and you can always get a spare part when you need it.

We have just received a substantial reduction in prices on these mills. Also a big reduction on silos.

The Didsbury Pioneer

So far it is not known how many candidates or who will run in the Didsbury constituency. Conventions for the Liberals and Farmers will be held next week. The Liberals will hold theirs in Didsbury on July 11th, while the U. F. A. will convene at Acme on July 8th.

Whether the Liberal-Conservatives and the Labor men will nominate candidates is a question. It is supposed that the east country comprising Drumheller, Wayne and Newcastle, which is the mining district of this constituency will bring out a Labor candidate, although nothing is known for sure.

Mr. A. Bruso has been appointed returning officer for the constituency.

Who and What Are We?

Is there such a person as a Canadian?

The Government of Canada says there is not. According to the official records there is not one Canadian among the eight or nine million inhabitants of this Dominion. Neither the Premier of Canada, nor any one of the Premiers of the Provinces, is a Canadian. They may have been born in Canada, and their parents and grandparents before them, but that makes no difference—they are not Canadians. The Government of Canada says so, and has instructed its army of census officials to record the amazing fact.

Readers of the above may be skeptical of the truth of these assertions, but a little quiet inquiry and investigation on their part will soon establish the correctness of the statements made.

Commencing on June 1st the work of taking the decennial census of Canada was begun and enumerators began visiting the homes of the Dominion armed with official forms and pencil in hand asking questions of all and sundry as to their names, age, place of birth, nationality, etc. Coming to the question of nationality, a man or woman born in Canada, very naturally reply that they are Canadians. But Mr. Census-taker retorts that they are not. They may be anything else, but they most assuredly are not Canadians. When these patriotic sons or daughters of Canada insist they are Canadians, first, last and all the time, and nothing else, the faithful servant of the Government of Canada is forced to explain to them that there are no Canadians. The Government does not recognize them at all in the official tabulation of the nationality of the residents of the Dominion.

Mr. Census-taker will then ask: "Where was your father born?" "In Canada," comes the reply. "Where was your mother born?" Again the answer is, "In Canada." "Well, they are not Canadians either," is the dictation. And then Mr. Census-taker will explain that Canada is not a nation and, therefore, there can be no Canadian nationality. He may then ask: "Were your grandparents, or possibly your great-grandparents, Irish?" The ordinary Canadian resident may reply: "What has that got to do with it, Ireland is not a nation." It is even less a nation than Canada. Canada exists not only full self-government, but it is a member of the League of Nations on a basis of entire equality with all other nations, which Ireland is not.

The logical force of such an answer is, however, entirely lost upon the Government of Canada. Residents of this Dominion may be classified as Irish, or Scotch, or Welsh, or Hungarian, or Chinese, or Turks—anything almost but Canadian, even though it is necessary to go back prior to the days of Queen Victoria to find the remote remote ancestor born outside the boundaries of the Dominion in order to fix some nationality upon native-born Canadians.

This is not a far-fetched description, because the writer has personal knowledge of an instance where a Canadian-born citizen informed the census enumerator that he had no knowledge of any ancestors but those whose place of birth was Canada, and who was, therefore, recorded by the enumerator as "Nationally unknown."

Yet our politicians and statesmen boast of Canada as a nation. In rounded periods and with great eloquence they dwell upon this Dominion's place among the nations, and the prominent part it plays in the councils of the League of Nations. On all sides exhortations are heard of our duty to Canadianize our new settlers from "foreign" lands. The Canadianizing of all peoples within our bounds is urged as a foremost Canadian duty and responsibility. Yet when the children of these "New Canadians" proudly say, "I am a Canadian," the Government of Canada officially tells them they are mistaken; they are Germans, or Russians, or Poles, or Austrians, or Italians, but they are not Canadians and never can be, nor can their children or children's children ever be throughout the ages yet to come.

Pick up the official census returns for all past decades and see if you can find that there is a Canadian living in Canada. It is not high time that this obsolete, antiquated classification of by-gone years be discarded. Has the time not come when a person born in Canada has a right to be classified as a Canadian and not be compelled to accept official designation of some other nationality which he will never accept for himself personally?

What is the sense of preaching Canadianism and seeking to create and develop a Canadian national sentiment, Canadian art, Canadian literature, and Canadian institutions, if for all time the world is to be officially informed through the publications of the Canadian Government that such a person as a Canadian is non-existent, that this Dominion is still an infant colony of little or no importance inhabited for the time being by English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, American, German, Austrian, Russian and other peoples?

Canada's failure to secure its own Minister at Washington, sitting in the councils of the League of Nations, taking its full part in the Great World War, and yet denying to its own native-born sons and daughters the right to the name Canadian presents an anomaly that should be removed. The Ottawa Government had better begin itself and place itself and the official records of this Dominion in line with real Canadian sentiment and aspirations.

IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is, you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and distressing, and always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy for all the troubles of the bowels; soothe the stomach; break up constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. M. C. Condit, Makinik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mrs. Doyle Forced To Live Entirely On Bread And Milk She Declares

"I think it is enough to make anyone happy to enjoy the splendid health I do now," said Mrs. John Doyle, 123 John St., North, Hamilton, Ont.

"Last winter I had the 'flu' and, as I had been in a badly rundown condition for several years, it just seemed to wreck my whole system. All through the winter I was down in bed half the time and instead of getting better, I seemed to get worse. My stomach was so badly upset that I had to live entirely on bread and milk. If I ventured to eat anything else at all I would simply suffer agony."

"I would have terrible pains in my stomach and would bloat up so bad that I often felt as if I was suffocating."

My nerves were worn to a frazzle and I had frequent headaches. I went to bed tired, got up feeling tired and all through the day hardly had the strength to do a thing."

"But I'm so glad I tried Tanlac, because my suffering is all over now. I just feel splendid, eat whatever I wish and never have a touch of indigestion. My nerves are steady and I am free from headaches. I sleep perfectly sound and just feel so much stronger that the housework seems easier than ever. My daughter has taken Tanlac since it restored my health and it has helped her just like it did me. Tanlac has certainly been a blessing in our home."

WEDNESDAY JUNE 29th 1921

Gives Serious Warning

Ottawa, June 28.—Warning that forces were at work which, unless checked in a very decided manner, would lead to another world catastrophe, and forecasting a determined drive for the amalgamation of all the soldier organizations of Canada as a contribution toward the maintenance of the British empire, R. B. Maxwell, president of the Great War Veterans' Association, speaking at a dinner here last night, declared that another war would mean the destruction of civilization and that before permanent peace was secured that the British empire would be strained to the breaking point. Mr. Maxwell emphasized that he had made these statements from knowledge. The forces of destruction could only be controverted by patriotism, service and sacrifice.

The dinner was a welcome home to Mr. Maxwell, who represented Canada at the meeting of representatives of soldier organizations of the British empire, in Cape Town, South Africa and which resulted in the formation of the British Empire Service League.

Agricultural Education at Universities

Agriculture being the basic industry of the country, every advance made in the development of agricultural education is of national value. Recently, several provincial universities have presented extension courses for the benefit of farmers and others. To this end the educational authorities have co-operated with the farmers' organizations with highly encouraging results. In the case of Manitoba a course of lectures was given on rural economics and sociology, supplemented by special lectures on a variety of subjects appealing to other sections of the community. In Ontario also, the University of Toronto was induced to give a similar course. A noteworthy feature of the course was the taking of the students to the stock-yards, the abattoirs, and other places of a practical illustrative value. It is felt that the alliance thus established between the agricultural industry and those engaged in educational work will tend to a better understanding of economic problems which affect the welfare of town and country alike.

Precautions Against Bovine Tuberculosis

A few years ago the United States breeders of pure bred cattle, recognizing the necessity of more effective measures for the control of tuberculosis, arranged a conference with officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington, the result of which was the adoption of what is known as the Accredited Herd Plan, meaning that the herd had been thoroughly tested and found free from any symptoms of tuberculosis. The plan proved so successful—over a thousand herds being accredited in a brief period—that a decision was arrived at to adopt the system in Canada. Regulations were promulgated which came into force in September, 1919, and have proved gratifyingly successful, a number of herds have been accredited, while many others are under test. There is now an agreement between this country and the United States that cattle from accredited herds may enter either way, without detention or test. Under the Municipal Tuberculosis Order, passed at Ottawa some years ago, and the more recently adopted Accredited Herd Plan, compensation is paid for animals officially slaughtered and the owners are permitted under regulation to realize whatever they can from the sale of the carcass.

THE WORLD IS AS YOU MAKE IT

Quality maintains economy. You may pay less "per gallon" for other lubricating oils, but you get more lubrication "per dollar" when you buy Imperial Polarine Motor Oils.

CUTS OPERATING COSTS

THE economy of using Imperial Polarine Motor Oils extends over practically every item of motor operation.

The lubrication afforded at every friction point and the gas-tight piston-to-cylinder seal means a big saving in fuel bills and a noticeable increase of power.

Through perfect protection of all motor parts, undue repair bills are avoided and depreciation is greatly reduced. By using Imperial Polarine Motor Oils you can save dollars this year on maintenance alone. Besides, you realize more profit and greater usefulness from your car.

Always use the grade of Imperial Polarine recommended on our Charts for your type of motor. See Charts at your dealer's or write to 76 Church Street, Toronto, for a copy of our interesting booklet, "Automotive Lubrication," which contains the complete Chart of Recommendations.

Prelude

Six little slaves clattered into place, and six little figures stood erect between their benches.

"Right! Term! said the master, 'March! School is dismissed'; and six pairs of bare little legs twinkled along the aisle, across the willow-wood threshold, down the stone steps, and into the dusty road, warm with the rays of the Indian summer sun.

The master watched them from the open window until they vanished behind a ridge of beech trees that cut his vision from the concession. While they remained within sight a smile played upon the features of his strong, sun-kissed face, but as the little school dress was swallowed by the wood the smile died down, and for a moment he stood, grave and thoughtful, staring framed within the white pine casings of the sash. His wider grey eyes looked into the forest, while the light wind that stirred the golden maple leaves trembled gently with his ankle bones.

His brown study lasted only a moment. With a quick movement he walked to the blackboard, caught up a section of slatting, and began tracing the symbols of the day's instruction.

"Well, I suppose there's reward in heaven," he said to himself, as he set the little schoolroom in order. "There isn't much here. The children will pay a man more to doctor their sick sheep than to teach their children. But, of course, you get lamb and wool from a sheep. I won't stand it longer than the spring. If others can take the trouble I can take it too. If it were not for her I would go to-morrow."

The first remark seemed to unlock a new chain of thought. The grey eyes lit up again. He wheeled the brown bench for a minute, then tossed it in a corner, fastened the window, slipped a little folder into his pocket, locked the door behind him, carefully placed the key under the stone step where the first child in the morning would find it, and swung in a rapid stride down the path leading from the little schoolhouse into the forest.

Ten minutes' quick walking in the woods, now glorious in its autumn splendor, brought him to a point where the sky stood up, pale blue, expanse through the trees. The next moment he was at the water's edge, and a limpid lake stretched away to where the heavens of the farther shore mingled lazily with sky and water. The point where the road was a little lower, fringed with water-worn stones, and hemmed around by the forest, except for one wedge of blue that broke into the distance. He glanced about, as though expecting someone, he whistled a line of a native song, but the only reply was from a saucy cavedropper which, perched on a near-by limb, thrilled back its own liquid notes in answer.

"I may as well improve the moment," he said to himself, he remarked to his undisturbed lake the water. "This thing of embarking on two new seas at once calls for solid piloting." He seated himself on a stone, drew from his pocket the folder, and spread a map before him. In a few moments he was so engrossed that he did not hear the almost noiseless motion of a canoe as it thrust its brown nose into the blue wedge before him. The canoe sailed with its own momentum gracefully through the quiet waters, suddenly revealing a picture for the heart of any artist. Kneeling near its stern, her middle hand aloft and dripping, her brown arms and bosom bare, glistening in the mellow sun, her face beaming, was a little and beautiful girl. In an instant her eye located the young man on the bank and her lips moulded a thought to speak. But when she saw how indisposed she was the remained silent and upright as an Indian while the canoe slipped gently toward the shore. Presently it cushioned its nose in the velvety sand. She rose silently from her seat, and stole on moss-casned tip-toes along the stones until she could feel her hair with her fingers. But her eyes fell on his shoulder on the papers before him.

"Always at your studies," she cried as he sprang eagerly to his feet. "You must be seeking a profession. But I suppose you have to be always breaking up?" she continued, banteringly. "You oldest pupil must be—let me see—no less than eight?"

He smothered her banter with his affection, but she stole the map from his fingers.

"I declare, if it isn't Manitoba! What next? Siberia or Patagonia? I thought you were still in the Eastern Townships."

"So I am—in school. But out of school I am spending a good deal of my time in Manitoba, Mary."

She caught a grave note in his voice as he said her name. Seizing his chest between her hands she turned his face to her. "Answer me, John Harris. You are not thinking of going to Manitoba?"

"Suppose I say I am?"

"Then I am going too!"

"John! Nothing unusual about a wife going with her husband, is there?"

"No, of course, but you know—"

"Yes, I know," glancing at the ring on her finger. "This still stands at my side."

"Yes, dear," he answered, raising the ring to his lips. "You know it will stand by me."

But to venture into that wilderness means—you see, it means so much more to a woman than to a man.

"Not as much as staying at home—alone. You really don't think I would do that?"

"No, not exactly that. Let us sit down and I will tell you what I thought. Here, let me get the cushion. There, that's better. Now let me start at the beginning."

"Until you came here last summer—until all this happened, you know—I was quite satisfied to go on teaching."

"And I have soon discovered—"

"Please don't interrupt. Teaching seemed as good as anything else."

"As good as anything else? Better than anything else, I should say. What is better than training the tender child, inspiring him with your ideals—"

"Oh, I know all about that. Until I began to have some genuine ideal of my own I was satisfied with it. But now—well, everything is different."

"I know," she answered. "The salary won't support two. There's the rub."

They sat for some minutes, gazing dreamily across the broad sheet of silver.

"And so you are going to Manitoba?" she said at length.

"Yes. There are possibilities there. It's a gamble, and that is why I don't want to share it with you—at first. I thought I would spend a year, locate a homestead, get some kind of a house built, perhaps break some land. Then I would come back."

"And you were going to give me a word in all these preparations for our future? You have a lot to learn yet, John. You won't find it in that folder, either."

He laughed lightly, then, looking at her, for weeks the determination to seek his fortune in the then almost unknown Canadian West had been growing upon him, and as it grew he shrank more and more from disclosing his plans to his fiancée. Had she been one of the country girls of the neighborhood, a daughter of the sturdy backwoods pioneers, bred to hard work in field and barnyard, he would have bristled less. But she was sprung from gentler stock. It seemed almost prone to think of her in the lonely life of a homesteader on the bleak, unsettled plains—to see her in the monotony and drudgery of the pioneer life. He had been stealing himself for the ordeal, schooling himself with arguments, fortifying his resolve, unconsciously, perhaps, with the picture of his own heroism in braving the unknown. And she had scaled every bravado at a bound, and captured the citadel by the adroit diplomacy of apparent surrender.

She had snatched his confession at an unguarded moment. He had got so much so soon, so much to tell her so much so soon, as he thought over the wheels he had set in motion, their possible course staggered him, and found himself arguing against the step he contemplated.

"It's a gamble," he repeated. "The agricultural possibilities of the country have not been established. It may be adapted to buffaloes and Indians. They say the Skikrik settlers have seen hardships compared with which Ontario pioneers lived in luxury. We may be far back from civilization, far from neighbors, doctors, or churches, or any of those things which we take as a matter of course."

"Then you will need me with you, John, and I am going."

She could not mistake the look of determination in his eyes. "May," he said, "you are a hero. I didn't think it was in you. I mean I—"

"A heroine, if you please," she corrected. "But I am not that—not the least bit. I want to go because—"

"because to go with you, even to Manitoba, is not nearly so dreadful as to stay at home without you."

"But come," said the girl, springing lightly to her feet. "We have matters of great moment for immediate consideration."

He was at her heels. One hand resting on his strong arm sufficed to steady her body as she stepped over the stones. Somewhere in the white napkin. Under a friendly breeze she hid her doubts before him.

In a crimson glow the sun had sunk behind the black forest across the lake. The silver waters had draped in mist their fringe of inverted trees along the shore, and lay, passive and waiting, very still, because of the smooth-cutting canoe.

One by one the stars came out in the heavens, and one by one their dubious wavered and mimicked in the lake. A daller point of light bespoke a settler's cabin on the distant shore.

"And we shall build our own home, and live our own lives, and love each other—forever, for ever and ever!" she breathed.

"For ever and ever," he answered. A waterfowl out of the forest in his sharp, whistling flight. The last white shimmer of daylight faded from the surface of the lake. The beaver floated on, gently, joyously, into their ocean of hope and happiness.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for babies. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Comfort—The Mother's Friend.

by using a lubricant that will stop friction which is the great foe to gear life. Go into any repair shop and see the number of cars being overhauled because some owners think that all lubricants are equally good. Repair men will tell you that half of their business results from imperfect lubrication.

Whitmore's Gear Compositions are not affected by changes of temperature. They are actively fluid in the coldest weather, and in extreme heat and at high speeds they constantly preserve an indestructible film on the bearings, preventing contact of metal to metal.

WHITMORE'S does not evaporate under extreme heat, the level is not reduced. Run it through a strainer and put it back in your car, truck or tractor. You can use it over and over again. One installation will last right up to twenty-four months where there is no leakage. Considered on a mileage basis no lubricant is so economical as Whitmore's.

OTHER LUBRICANTS MAY COST LESS PER POUND—THEY COST MORE PER MILE. Don't ask for a grease—ask for Whitmore's Auto Gear Protective Composition manufactured by The Whitmore Manufacturing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Fire Burns Hardy's Barn

A fire occurred last Friday night at about 10:30 o'clock. The scene of the conflagration being the barn on the old Smith place, now occupied by Mr. W. Hardy.

When first noticed the barn was well afire and although the fire brigade immediately got on the job, it could not be saved. There was not much hay in the barn but about twenty-five ton of coal was stored on the ground floor.

For a considerable time the house just across the alley, occupied by Mrs. Olson was seriously threatened, good work on the part of the Gressman boys and several other young men however saved the building from being demolished. The south side of it caught fire several times and is rather badly burned. The origin of the fire is not known.

The Town Fire Department are rather in need of a jolt to get them to realize the serious situation in which they are liable to find themselves at some time or another on account of their laxity in looking after the fire fighting apparatus. Friday night things were in a very bad condition; there were no lights in the Fire Hall, the engines had to be gotten out in the dark, the hook and ladder rig was missing of half its tools and the water tank which is supposed to be kept full of water, was, after being hauled up by men to the scene of operations, found to be empty. These things can all stand being looked into.

Didsbury at Carstairs

The Didsbury baseball team made a trip to Carstairs on Monday evening and received their second loss of the season. The game, which was an exhibition game, was very close, the score being 5-2 favor of Carstairs. In the first inning they brought in three runs and in the second two, Didsbury securing one in the sixth and one in the eighth. Herb Liesner knocked out a home run and Harvey Burgess a two bagger. Keith and Clemens composed Didsbury's battery. Carstairs will play a return game here next Wednesday night when it is hoped the local boys will back up their good reputation.

The steam and gasoline engines represent the most powerful and steady source of power that we have today. The steam or gasoline is concentrated in a confined space which gives it this power. Do you ever consider this in regard to advertising?

The power that is contained in space occupied by an ad. in the Pioneer has a pulling power that is expended on hundreds of readers that you cannot begin to reach by word of mouth which is like the old way of pulling a wagon by oxen or getting power from the old fashioned water-wheel.

AROUND THE TOWN

Miss Florence Reiber of the Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary is home on a two weeks vacation.

Mr. Harold Reiber, principal of the Three Hills School, is visiting at home.

The Rugby Women's Institute will hold their annual picnic at Mr. Chas. Brown's residence on Thursday July 7th. Lunch at 1 p. m. Everybody welcome.

The Mountain View Women's Institute will hold a picnic and dance at the Community Hall on July 20th. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

The storm of last Friday partially destroyed the crops of Wm. Wilson and E.M. Stringer. Both crops were insured for hail.

Mrs. L. C. Coffey and little daughters returned to their home in Calgary on Monday after a visit of several weeks duration with Mrs. Coffey's parents.

The many friends throughout the district will be glad to hear that Mrs. Charly Young, of the Dog Pound, is slowly recovering from her recent severe illness.

On account of Camp Meeting now in progress, there will be no services in the Nazarene Church until Sunday July 17th, after which regular meetings will be resumed.

The program given at the Community Hall east of Didsbury last week was well attended and everybody had a good time. Barnes' orchestra supplied the music and Perry's little son, six years of age, is getting to be very expert on the drums.

Evert Blain had the misfortune to break his arm at the Community Hall entertainment last Friday. He slipped on the grass and fell, breaking his arm just above the wrist. This is the third time this arm has been broken. After being brought into town to have it dressed, he pluckily insisted upon being taken back to the Hall to help finish up the festivities.

The editor and Mrs. H. E. Osmond returned from attending the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Convention at Vancouver and Victoria, on Thursday last. They had the time of their lives and enjoyed every part of the trip. Owing to a rush of election work a fuller report of how they found conditions on their trip and a description of some will have to be left over for a subsequent issue.

On Sunday July 3rd, an alteration in the hour of service, is announced in the Church of England. Instead of the usual afternoon service for the first
